OSCAR STRAUS CHOSEN FOR GOVERNOR AT BULL MOOSERS' CONVENTION

Great Demonstration as His Name Is Presented by Jack McGee and Delegates Stampede to Him Amid Dramatic Scenes.

BY MARTIN GREEN,

Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.

CONVENTION HALL, Syracuse, Sept. 6.—The most remarkable stampede in the history of politics made Oscar Straus the nominee of the Bull Moosers for Governor this afternoon.

"Suspend Jack" McGee of New York had sprung a surprise by invading the platform and nominating for Governor the Chairman, Mr. Straus. "Suspend Jack" was greeted as a joke when he first took the platform, but he had started something when he left it. The first big spontaneous enthusiastic outbreak of the convention came to pass when Mr. Straus, smiling, stepped to the front of the platform.

The nomination of Mr. Straus was extremely dramatic. At 4:30 o'clock the roll call had concluded. William A. Prendergast and W. H. Hotchkiss had been placed in nomination and all was in readiness for a roll call. There came to the platform "Suspend Jack" McGee, a former New York policeman, and an ardent "Bull Moose." He had a soiled bandanna around his neck and carried a battered old slouch hat in his hand.

Tim Woodruff was on his feet when the band struck up the doxology. Mr. Woodruff withdrew the nomination of Prendergast. William A. Chadbourne of New York withdrew the nomination of Chairman Hotchkiss for Governor. The assemblage had laughed at "Suspend Jack" when he appeared. His voice was husky as his features were awkward and his language was twisted, but he knew what he was about. Skillfully he concealed the name of the man he had in mind. Mr. Straus sat smiling at the desk toying with the gavel.

"Who is your candidate?" yelled the crowd. "Who is he?" yelled "Suspend Jack." "Why that noble gentleman, Oscar Straus."

STORM OF WAVING BANDANNAS IN AIR.

The convention immediately resolved itself into the committee of the whole. Up went the standards, the air was crimsoned with a storm of waving bandannas. Cheers rang the skylights and the wave of emotion ascended to the red, white and blue decorations and among them as in a gale. The delegates swarmed to the aisles and rushed for the platform.

In the forefront of the rush was William H. Hotchkiss. He made the platform from the ground in about three jumps and grabbed the gavel from the hands of the surprised and almost overcome Mr. Straus. Mr. Hotchkiss urged Mr. Straus to accept. Men swarmed all about him urging him to accept. The band struck up "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and two thousand voices took up the refrain. The air was vibrant with enthusiasm.

Mr. Straus, a little bewildered, a great deal affected, was persuaded and he nodded his head. Mr. Hotchkiss wrote on a piece of paper the words, "He accepts."

BOTH HOTCHKISS AND PRENDERGAST WERE NAMED.

The contest between the followers of William A. Prendergast and William H. Hotchkiss had been carried into the Convention this afternoon. Both Mr. Hotchkiss and Mr. Prendergast were placed in nomination. Mr. Hotchkiss over his personally voiced protest. In allowing himself to be placed in nomination with opposition Mr. Prendergast backed down from a stand he maintained until shortly before the Convention assembled. He was forced by his friends to stand against Mr. Hotchkiss for the nomination.

The nomination of each candidate was kindly received. In point of enthusiasm it was about an even break, but the Prendergast people claimed a walkover, while the Hotchkiss adherents didn't claim anything.

GIBSON CHALLENGES ACCUSERS TO SHOW SZABO WILL FRAUD

Insists Mother of Drowned Victim Is Alive, and Says He Will Prove It.

BROTHER COMING HERE.

Austrian Consul Expects Him to Give Evidence That Woman's Parent Died in 1910.

Attorney Burton W. Gibson continued today to defy the representatives of the Austro-Hungarian Consulate to prove that there was anything irregular in the drawing of the will of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, who was drowned in Greenod Lake last July while boating with Gibson.

He faced the batteries of accusations and innuendoes that the lawyers for the Austrian Consul have been firing at him with an absolutely unflinching front, promising to meet all their charges before Surrogate Fowler and to produce the mother of Mrs. Szabo, who was named as beneficiary in her will.

The efforts of Lawyer Gibson's accusers to stir the District Attorney's office to action have failed, for the time being at least. After a conference with Vice-Consul Fischerbauer and Arpad A. Kremer, attorney for the Austro-Hungarian Consulate, this afternoon, Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel said:

"So far no evidence has been laid before me upon which this office can act. The accusers of Mr. Gibson must either produce relatives of Mrs. Szabo from Austria or the woman who they allege impersonated the dead mother before we will be in any position to take action. The evidence before me is not of a character on which to base a criminal charge of any kind."

Vice-Consul Fischerbauer declared that he would produce a brother of Mrs. Szabo before Surrogate Fowler on Sept. 17, the time fixed by the Surrogate for Mr. Gibson to show cause why he should not be removed as administrator of Mrs. Szabo's estate. Dr. Fischerbauer said that he had called the chief of police of Vienna to arrange to have one of the dead woman's kinsmen sail immediately for New York.

"I have every reason to expect," said Dr. Fischerbauer, "that a brother will arrive here before the time set by Surrogate Fowler for Mr. Gibson to show cause why he should not be removed as administrator of Mrs. Szabo's estate."

AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT TO SEE JUSTICE IS DONE.

"I am anxious to push the civil and criminal sides of this case to the limit and the Austrian Government will spare neither pains or expense to see that justice is done to the rightful heirs of Mrs. Szabo, and that the perpetration of fraud is punished."

When Lawyer Gibson was informed of the promise made by the Austrian Vice-Consul to produce a brother of his dead client, he smiled and said:

"Well, we will wait until this alleged brother reaches New York. He will be interesting in view of the fact that there are absolutely no living relatives of Mrs. Szabo save her mother."

Additional affidavits were obtained today from Mrs. Agnes T. Boyd of No. 45 West One hundred and Seventy-seventh street, who was employed as stenographer in the offices where B. W. Gibson had desk room at the time Mrs. Szabo signed her will.

In these affidavits, which were turned over to Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel, the young woman tells of how Gibson had sent out for a translator to read letters for Mrs. Szabo. She also swears that Mrs. Szabo seemed absolutely ignorant about legal papers and always did just what her attorney told her without question.

HEARD MRS. SZABO MENTION DEATH OF MOTHER.

She also recalls that Mrs. Szabo told her about hearing from her brothers and sisters, and about a letter she had not telling of the death of her mother. All these conversations occurred in the office where Gibson transacted his legal business.

In a new affidavit made by Mrs. Trenchman who was Mrs. Szabo's most intimate friend, she states that Mrs. Szabo told her of how she had informed Mr. Gibson of her mother's

8 PRETTY GIRLS KEPT "BOX SCORE" PROPOSAL TALLY

Any Bid Without a Title Counted Only a Half on Trip Abroad.

The Misses Elizabeth and Musa McDonald were obviously relieved to-day when the Mauretania slid into her dock and they were again in a land where title bearing, impetuous noblemen are only travelling rarities. It was not on their own account that the Misses McDonald experienced this feeling of relief, since—well, their raven tresses are plentifully sprinkled with gray, and the spectacle bows have left their lines these many years. But, in their charge, the Misses McDonald had eight as pretty girls as could be found in the South, and each girl while abroad, was pursued by any number of swarming, titled gentlemen with waxed mustaches, pretty manners and ardent eyes.

GIRLS KEPT "BOX SCORE" OF THEIR PROPOSALS.

In Italy the chase started, and many of the enamoured, be-ribboned swains continued the pursuit until the party finally embarked. Noble youths wooed them in Switzerland, gay royalists in France, profligate barons in Germany, and scores of young Honorables in England and Scotland. Through receiving and parrying the attentions of this noble host, the young women, students at the Misses McDonald's Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn., acquired an even greater European polish than their precursors had hoped for.

From the first the girls kept a "box score" of their proposals, counting only one-half for each that did not come from a titled suitor. This is the way the score stood when the Mauretania came into harbor—and not a heart had the party left behind:

Katherine Holladay, 3; Edie Wootten,

9; Corinne White, 8; Delta Bent, 7; Marie Pappenheimer, 7; Harriet Cole, 6; Hazel Wilson, 5; Sybil Loewenther, 5.

The largest scores were rolled up in Switzerland, where many young noblemen were sojourning. Those who did not capitulate at the formal reception the night of the girls' arrival at an Alpine hotel proposed the next day, when the fair travelers, forgetful of their erstwhile dignity, escaped the Misses McDonald and tobogganed on the perilous slopes which all away from the hostelry's back yard.

POLITICAL TREND AT SEA SEEMS TO FAVOR WILSON.

Beside the Hon. Mrs. Beresford, erstwhile Kitty Gordon the Mauretania brought E. H. Southern and Julia Marlowe—who is Mrs. Southern—from their vacation in England. This they spent quietly in a little manor house at Mirkton, in the Cotswold Hills. Mrs. Southern wants to be an architect, principally that she may design scientifically her new home. F. W. Woolworth, the father of that lusty, gangling infant, the Woolworth Building, another passenger, was so annoyed by the report that he had gone abroad to finance his $2,000,000 building operation that the pleasant on the side of his gay Tyrolean hat fluttered indignantly. With all the rest of its variegated cargo the Mauretania brought back a choice lot of assorted political opinions. They were of the general trend that Wilson had the best chance, and that the Colonies the poorest.

"It's Wilson," said Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, of Chicago. "No sane man could endorse the whole Roosevelt platform, although it has some good features."

According to J. Sergeant Cram, it is Europe's opinion in view of the Panama Canal situation, that the United States is not a fit nation to make a treaty of any sort.

Hurt in Clash With Auto.

A light delivery auto owned by the Simpson Crawford Company collided with a taxicab this afternoon at Central Park West and Seventy-seventh street. Patrick Murphy, operator of the cab, was thrown to the street. He was taken to J. Hood Wright Hospital with a fractured skull.

THREE MORE KILLED IN DROP OF PLANES FROM THE CLOUDS

Two British Military Aviators And a Bavarian Are Dashed to Death.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Three military aviators were killed to-day, two meeting death at Stevenage, England, and the third at Munich, in Bavaria. Capt. Patrick Hamilton had taken Lieut. Stewart with him as a passenger in his biplane at Stevenage. The two officers, who were both of the British army, had flown for a considerable time when a strong wind suddenly sprang up and in endeavoring to make headway against it one of the wings of the aeroplane collapsed.

The machine fell to the ground from an altitude of 50 feet, and was completely destroyed. The bodies of the two officers were found in the wreck. Capt. Hamilton had obtained his pilot's certificate only on March 13 this year. He was an infantry officer belonging to the Worcestershire Regiment, but was attached for duty to the Army Flying Corps. Lieut. Stewart was an amateur at flying.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Sept. 6.—A German military aviator was killed near here early to-day during a reconnoitering flight. Lieut. Steiger of the Bavarian army had ascended in his biplane to make a report of the position of the opposing force in the local manoeuvres. The weather was stormy and when his machine had reached a height of three hundred feet it suddenly buckled and crashed to the earth.

Lieut. Steiger was not dead when picked up, but died shortly afterward from his injuries. He was a novice in aviation, having obtained his aviator's certificate only three weeks ago.

RECORD FOR SUBMARINE.

F-1 of U. S. Navy Dives 283 Feet.

Beats World Figures.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The United States navy submarine F-1 holds a world's record to-day. After diving 283 feet off Point Diablo in San Francisco Bay, the submarine remained at this depth for ten minutes yesterday, cruising at a speed of six knots.

The F-1 was under command of Lieut. James B. Howell. The twenty-six men of the crew went about their duties while the hull creaked and groaned beneath the enormous pressure.

DROWNED MAN A BROKER.

Body Found in Lake Ontario That of Daniel J. Kennedy of Toronto.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The identity of the body of the man found on the shore of Lake Ontario at Mile Point on Aug. 30 was cleared up to-day when William Kennedy of Toronto examined the personal effects and declared they belonged to his brother, Daniel J. Kennedy, a wealthy Toronto broker and club member.

Kennedy was drowned from his yacht in Highland Creek, fourteen miles east of Toronto, one month ago to-morrow.

HANDS OFF RESORTS WAS WALDO'S ORDER TO INSPECTOR HAYES

"If There Is No Outside Disorder in Suspected Houses, Let Them Alone," Is Alleged Specific Command.

ORDERED OFF ONE PLACE DURING TENDERLOIN TRIP

"Did the Best He Could," Admits Accuser, After Denying Mayor Directed His Administration.

Cornelius G. Hayes, the demoted police inspector, put the "hands-off" order in regard to the suppression of vice, squarely up to Commissioner Waldo, when he took the stand in his own defense late this afternoon.

He quoted the orders he had received from Waldo upon his taking charge of the Fourth Inspection District, as follows:

"If there is no outside condition of disorder in suspected houses let them alone. But if there is an outside condition of disorder, arrest the inmates."

Hayes also declared that Waldo had approved his, Hayes's order to his captains not to allow plainclothes men to enter disorderly houses. Arrests he had made in that connection were in violation of the Commissioner's orders, Hayes said, and upon complaint of private individuals.

Hayes took the stand at 2:40 o'clock, and answered the usual preliminary questions as to his career in the Department. His counsel, Mr. Thacher, sought to show that while he was in charge of the First Inspection District for a month, Hayes had closed every disorderly house in the district. Deputy Commissioner McKay, who presided at the trial, was willing to concede this fact to save time.

DECLARES WALDO ORDERED HANDS OFF EL DORADO RESORT

"I gave captains in the district orders only to raid disorderly houses when I ordered it," Hayes declared. "What did Waldo say to you when he sent you to the Fourth Inspection District?" Mr. Thacher asked.

He told me not to let him hear anything more of the trouble in the district."

Then Hayes told of the tour he had made through his district on Sept. 5. He said:

"As we were passing the El Dorado dance hall at Fifty-second street and Seventh avenue, the Commissioner said: 'There's a dance hall there, filled with women and their followers. If there's no disorder and it keeps the women off the streets, leave it alone.' 'Did you give your Captain instructions regarding disorderly houses?' he was asked.

"Did you tell the Commissioner what your orders were?"

"I told him I had ordered the men to keep out of the disorderly houses because I thought they might get mixed up with graft."

"And what did he say?"

"He said: 'If there is no outside condition of disorder, soliciting from doors or windows, let the houses alone. But if there is an outside condition exist, shut the houses and keep them tight. Arrest them.'"

"KEEP MEN OUT OF RESORTS," WALDO'S ALLEGED ORDER.

Capt. Hayes said that he was called to Police Headquarters by Commissioner Waldo on Feb. 12 last, after Hayes had made raids on disorderly resorts.

"The Commissioner said to me," testified Hayes, "What is the meaning of all these raids? Keep your men out of disorderly houses."

"I insisted that the raids had been made because of complaints by the Purist Fathers and other reputable residents of the district."

"The Commissioner said to me: 'I am informed by reputable and reliable newspaper men that those raids were made for the purpose of graft. Now, whether you can influence arrest, before
